

SEYMOUR CONCERN CLOSES CONTRACT

Blish Milling Company Handles Order of 90,000 Barrels Placed by London Brokers.

LOADING COMPLETED TODAY

British Merchantman Wearpool Carrying Cargo Ready to Sail from Baltimore.

The Blish Milling Company today received a wire that the big flour order of about 90,000 barrels which it recently received from London brokers had been loaded on the British merchant vessel Wearpool, which was expected to sail from Baltimore this afternoon. The local concern does not know at what port the ship will land. The sale was made with the understanding that the flour should be delivered at the Baltimore terminus of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company and after that the purchasers took possession of it. T. S. Blish, a member of the firm who has been in Baltimore for the last ten days looking after the transfer of the bills of lading, is expected home Sunday. He went to Baltimore to transfer the bills of lading to the captain of the Wearpool and to get the receipts as evidence that the cargo had been delivered in accordance with the contract.

The order called for 81,000 bags of 100 kilos each or a total of about 90,000 barrels. This is the biggest flour order that has ever been handled by the local company. The order came only a few weeks ago and one requirement was that the entire shipment be in Baltimore by April 18. In order to comply with this requirement the Blish Company found it necessary to purchase flour from other mills and filled only about fifteen per cent. of the total order at its mills here. The rest of the shipment was sent from mills in Evansville, Indianapolis and Kansas City. All of the order, however, was handled by the local company the other mills receiving payment from the Blish Company.

A total of 289 freight cars were required to haul the flour to Baltimore. Most of the shipment arrived in Baltimore by April 18, and was ready for loading at the stipulated time. A few cars, however, were delayed but reached the B. & O. terminus in ample time. One car which was delayed because the destruction of the bridge on the B. & O. branch did not reach Baltimore until Thursday. It is believed that the flour will go to a British port.

That the system of buying supplies in this country for foreign use is much more efficient than a year ago is indicated by the manner in which this order was handled. Twelve months ago an order of this size would have been handled through probably a dozen brokers in England and would have been distributed among several mills in this country. Accordingly, the price received for the flour would have been higher. At the present time the government is taking a hand in the purchases and instead of permitting any broker to participate in the deal designates the firm that is to handle the order. That firm then comes to the concerns in the United States and negotiates the deal.

M. S. Blish, a member of the Blish Milling Company, said today that as a result of this plan the mills in this country were not enabled to make the margin of profit that was possible a year ago under the old system. He said that the profit on this large order was very small compared to what it would have been on a similar shipment a year ago.

An idea of the precision with which the shipments are made is seen from the manner in which the boats are operated. During the latter part of March, the local firm received notice from the brokers negotiating the deal that the merchant vessel Wearpool was at that time discharging a cargo at Malta in the Mediterranean Sea and would put in at Baltimore about 3 o'clock on the afternoon of April 18. This was stated so that the shipment would

LAST TAXPAYING DAY BRINGS RUSH

County Treasurer's Office is Busy Place as Many Eleventh Hour Settlements Are Made.

AUDITOR SHARES IN BUSINESS

This is Also Final Day for Filing Mortgage Exemption Affidavits—Barrett Law Payments.

Two departments of the county government—the treasurer's and auditor's offices—experienced a great rush of business today. This was the last day for paying the semi-annual installment of taxes and also for filing mortgage and exemptions with the auditor. Scores of taxpayers who had not previously obtained their receipts from the treasurer called at the office today to make settlement and thus avoid the ten percent. delinquent which becomes due after the first Monday in May. The rush has been on at the treasurer's office during the past two weeks and thousands of dollars have been collected since the first of April.

Many persons today took advantage of the law providing for the filing of mortgage exemption affidavits and have filed statements showing the amount of mortgage indebtedness together with a description of the property incumbered. Such taxpayers are entitled to an exemption not to exceed $700 and hundreds of them take advantage of the law each year. The affidavits must be sworn to before a notary public and filed before the first Monday in May. Record is then made of the encumbrance and the proper credit is given the affiants before the assessments payable next year are made out and turned over to the county treasurer for collection.

While the majority of Jackson county taxpayers settle with the county treasurer before the last week scores of them wait until the eleventh hour. The treasurer and his office force have a difficult time in waiting on all the taxpayers at the last moment and for several days a line has been waiting at the window during the office hours. Besides the taxpayers who call in person at the office, hundreds of letters are received daily from persons who make settlement with check or money order. During the last three weeks many inquiries are made concerning the amount of the assessment due and these are answered unless the rush of business is so great that the force is unable to give them their attention.

Today is also the last day for settling with the city treasurer for the Barrett law bonds. Payments are made on these bonds the same as taxes. If the installments are not paid by today the city treasurer is required to add ten per cent. delinquent fee. Some of the property owners paying for improvements in this manner pay the installment in the spring of the year and others pay only the semi-annual interest.

SPECIAL REEL SHOWS VALUE OF A CLEAN UP CAMPAIGN

Interesting Pictures Will be Seen at Local Movie Houses First Three Days Next Week.

Dr. J. K. Ritter, a member of the publicity committee for the clean-up campaign, announced today that a special reel of pictures to be shown at the electric theaters next week had arrived. It is announced that the pictures will be shown at both theaters on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. No additional charge will be made on those nights as the reel was brought here by the clean up committee. About five minutes will be required to show the reel, it is stated.

Arrangements will be made by the managements of Dreamland and the Majestic theaters whereby the reel will be transferred between the two theaters each night so it can be shown at each show. The reel shows the value of a clean up campaign and how a community can be reclaimed from the sanitary standpoint. The pictures are actual scenes and will be viewed with interest by local people.

CITY SCHOOLS TO CLOSE NEXT MONTH

Annual Commencement Exercises to be Held at Majestic Theater on Night of May 25.

EXERCISES IN THE COUNTY

Schools in Brownstown, Medora and Vallonia will Close for the Summer Next Week.

With the completion of the spring term of the local schools only a month away, the members of the senior class are making active preparations for the annual commencement exercises which will mark their entrance into a larger field of activity. There are about forty members of the 1916 class. The complete list of the graduates is not yet prepared as the final examinations will not be held until the middle of May. The final tests for the seniors are held earlier than in the other classes so that if any of the members should receive conditions they will have another opportunity to try for the required grades.

The commencement exercises will be held on the evening of May 25 at the Majestic Theater. The annual baccalaureate service will be held on Sunday night, preceding the commencement exercises. The Rev. H. J. More, pastor of the Presbyterian church has been chosen by the class to deliver the sermon. The service will probably be held at the First Baptist church.

Much attention is now given to the publication of the High School Annual which promises to be one of the best books that has ever been issued by the local schools. The editor-in-chief and the staff are busy shaping up the material which will be printed. The students of the entire high school are the contributors to this publication, but the staff is required to go over the manuscripts submitted select the various compositions, stories, poems and other contributions that will be given space.

The coming week will mark the close of the school year at Brownstown, Vallonia and Medora. Twenty-one will be graduated from the Brownstown high school Wednesday night. Prof. Thomas Moran, of Purdue University, will deliver the annual class address. His subject will be, "Indiana and the Nation." The local orchestra will furnish the music for the evening. The baccalaureate address will be delivered to-morrow night by the Rev. W. U. Guerrant, pastor of the Brownstown Presbyterian church.

There are more than twice as many boys as girls in the Brownstown senior class this year. The boys number fifteen while there are but six girls: Lawrence Martin, Clarence Spurgeon, Jerry Beldon, Wright Vermilya, Jr., Hugh Johnson, Gale Thompson, Roswald Zaring, Ward Wayman, Robert Newkirk, George Rankin, Ralph McElfresh, Clyde Cooley, Sheldon Tatlock, Nevan Tovey, Rolland Brodhecker, Ruth Whitcomb, Gladys Martin, Anna Lee Colvin, Frances Robertson,

USE OF RAILROADS TO BE DEMANDED BY SCOTT

American General Also Expected to Refuse to Withdrawal of Troops From Mexico.

By United Press.
El Paso, Tex., April 29—Refusal to withdraw the United States forces from Mexico until Villa is taken and demands that the railroad and other facilities be granted the American expedition are expected to be among General Scott's proposals when he meets Carranza War Minister Obregon in the first formal conference today.

Indications here were that the Washington administration would even welcome a temporary peaceful protectorate over Mexico until the bandits are exterminated and the present menace is forever removed. This plan would involve the policing of Northern Mexico by United States troops which is opposed by Obregon. The first formal conference between the Carranza and United States conferees will be held this afternoon. Captain Lee of General Scott's staff, announced at noon on behalf of the American chief of staff. At present the time and meeting place were withheld.

Generals Scott and Funston are contemplating making a tour of inspection of the United States army in Mexico, it was learned today. Their plans depend on the outcome of their coming conference with General Obregon.

H. S. AT CROTHERSVILLE WILL PRESENT COMEDY

"Jack and the Beanstalk" Will be Given Tonight by Cast of One Hundred Characters.

The Crothersville high school will present the musical comedy, "Jack and the Beanstalk", tonight at the Crothersville Opera House. The play is being directed by the high school faculty. The cast of characters includes about one hundred names, the players being from six to twenty years old. The play is one of the largest that has been given at that place for some time and from the big advance sale of seats it is probably that the students will play to a packed house. Each division of the school has a part in the performance and the instructor in each department is acting as coach for his pupils who are in the cast.

BOAT DESTROYED BY FIRE; FORMER LOCAL MAN ABOARD

J. G. Nottage Member of Party of Sixteen Odd Fellows in Accident near St. Petersburg, Fla.

William M. Meseke has received a copy of the St. Petersburg, (Fla.) Independent, which gives an account of the destruction of the steamer Onawanda carrying a party of sixteen Odd Fellows. Among the passengers was J. G. Nottage, formerly of this city. Mr. Nottage is conducting a restaurant in St. Petersburg and has been very successful.

The boat was destroyed after fire broke out. The hull sank in shallow water. The passengers and crew, each provided with a life belt, clung to the beacons that mark the channel for six hours until rescued by a passing boat. They were brought to St. Petersburg unharmed, despite their experience. The party of Odd Fellows had been to Bradenton to attend a special meeting of the lodge there, and was returning home when the boat took fire.

LESS TENSION ON U-BOAT SITUATION

Relaxation Due to Knowledge That Kaiser's Reply to President's Demands is Completed.

COMPLIANCE IS REQUIRED

Conjecture as to How Far Kaiser Has Gone to Meet the Terms Laid Now in Ultimatum.

By United Press.
Washington, April 29—There was a marked relaxation of tension on the U-boat situation today. It was attributed largely to the knowledge emanating from German diplomatic sources both in Washington and Berlin that the German foreign office has completed its reply to President Wilson's note on the submarine issue and that the kaiser is discussing the whole subject of friendly relations between the two nations with Ambassador Gerard.

In the belief that German officials have met the embarrassing problem facing them there is now much conjecture as to how far the kaiser has gone to meet President Wilson's demands. Mere expressions of regard and desire for friendly relations if not coupled with compliance with the administration's position will not save the situation, it was made clear today.

BRITISH CABINET HOLD UNEXPECTED MEETING

Sensational Rumors Circulated as Sessions Are Never Called on Saturday.

By United Press.
London, April 29—The cabinet unexpectedly met this morning causing the circulation of most sensational rumors due to the fact that the ministerial meetings are never held on Saturday.

The meeting was at once connected with King George's conference with Premier Asquith and Lord Kitchener yesterday afternoon and a report of a new cabinet crisis was circulated.

BRITISH GARRISON HAS SURRENDERED TO TURKS

General Townsend's Forces Taken Near Bagdad, According to Official British Statement.

By United Press.
London, April 29—The British garrison at Kut-el-Amara, 105 miles southeast of Bagdad, has surrendered to the Turks, it was officially announced today. The forces surrendered were composed of 2,970 British and 6,000 Indian troops, the war office announced. General Townsend had been besieged for more than 140 days when he surrendered. Gen. Townsend destroyed all the enemy's guns and positions before surrendering, the war office said.

Force Surrounded.

London, April 29—A rebel force, variously estimated at 2,000 to 5,000 men has been surrounded in the heart of Dublin by British troops.

REBELS IN DUBLIN ROUTED BY TROOPS

Furious Hand to Hand Struggle Followed Fire which Threatened the City.

CONFLAGRATION WAS PLANNED

Government Authorities Reported to be in Control Although Disorder is Not Quelled.

By United Press.
Dublin, Ireland, April 29.—Amid roaring flames that threatened to sweep this city of more than half a million inhabitants, British troops and Sinn Fein rebels engaged in a furious hand to hand struggle. The rebels routed by the government troops scurried away as dawn broke upon the blackened ruins of their stronghold in the heart of Dublin. In their flight they were mowed down by Maxims and rifle fire and lost heavily. It is now estimated that more than one hundred persons were killed or are missing as the result of four days of street fighting.

The military authorities apparently are now in control of the situation although the disorders are not yet completely quelled. A ring has been thrown around the rebel forces who seem to be disheartened in their attempt to bring about a general uprising. When the troops began to close in about them the rebels started numerous fires in the heart of the city. They evidently planned to start a great conflagration hoping to escape. Troops rushed into the fire to extinguish the flames. They had scarcely begun their work when they met a fusillade from the house tops.

Blasts of smoke and flames hid the buildings in the hands of the rebels from sight, rolling away a moment later to disclose groups of men, standing upright on the roofs firing down on the government troops below.

It was reckless work. The figures of the rebels lined against the background of darkness by the leaping tongues of flames made them easy targets. One after another of the rebels were picked off by the government troops shadowed in the streets. The postoffice, headquarters for the rebels, and custom house, escaped unharmed by the flames which stopped just short of these principal buildings. The work of cleaning out the snipers is proceeding systematically, the British troops using care to guard public property and lives of citizens.

NEW YORK RUMOR SAYS REPUBLIC IS THE PLAN

Reported Irish Rebels Have Sanction of Teutonic Allies in Newly Formed Revolution.

By United Press.
New York, April 29.—That Irish rebels have organized a republic which will shortly be given recognition by the Teutonic allies was the story which gained circulation here today on the report that information came in code cables to Irish sympathizers here. The story was that prior to the Dublin revolt the rebel leaders secretly distributed a statement of their aims and made announcement of a provisional government under Aaron McNeill as president. It was said that a similar plan would be developed in Spain under O'Donnell, Duke of Tetuan.

It's Easy to Clean Up With The EDEN
Suction Cleaner

You are a careful housekeeper!

A clean house is your ideal!

But—is your house really clean?

Unless you use a good suction cleaner, it is utterly impossible for you to get the dust and dirt you can't see from the cracks between the boards of the floor—from radiators—from corners and edges of the base-board—from high ledges over windows and doors—and from countless other un-get-at-able places.

Unless this dust is gotten out from its hiding places, much of it works out—between cleaning days—and makes your house look as though it had not been cleaned.

You can get this dust—and all the other dust and dirt that you can see—quickly and easily with The EDEN Pressed Steel Suction Cleaner.

It is light—substantial—convenient—and thoroughly efficient; and it has many advantages over cleaners made of aluminum.

First: It will not "crack" or "rub off black" when run over rugs or draperies, thus soiling light colored floor coverings and fabrics.

Second: It is as smooth on the inside as on the outside—no place for dust or dirt to lodge, thus building up a resistance to the air current and lessening the efficiency of the cleaner.

Third: Aluminum is brittle, and sometimes breaks. The Eden is made of pressed steel, and is thus less liable to accidental breakdown.

LET'S BE NEIGHBORLY

Spotless Town Means Happier and Healthier People.

We Should "Clean Up and Paint Up" This Community at Once to Protect Our Families.

NEIGHBORHOOD improvement is home improvement multiplied. It is the sum of all the efforts made to make houses look attractive and beautiful.

Neighborhood improvement illustrates the influence of a good deed well done. On a dingy street one householder starts to improve the appearance of his home. He keeps yard and house spick and span. He paints his house, fences and outbuildings. He plants grass, flowers and shrubbery. Soon his neighbors notice the improvement. They begin to clean up, paint up and green up. Within a few months the street is transformed.

It not only looks better, but it is better. People are happier and more neighborly. Property values have increased. Neighborhood improvement has worked a "before and after" change that is really wonderful.

One of the modern poets has been inspired by neighborhood improvement work in his own town to express himself in the following language:

Little beds of flowers,
Little cans of paint,
Make attractive neighborhoods
Out of those that aint.

In many villages, towns and cities Clean Up and Paint Up effort has become popular in recent years. The immediate results have been a marked improvement in the appearance of the places in which they have been attempted.

In a certain western town one of the residence streets with a row of about fifteen houses was the shame of all the public-spirited citizens. Houses were greatly in need of repairs and paint. They looked bad and they kept looking worse every year. Finally one of the good citizens got an idea. He went to the owner of the house in the middle of the block.

"I want to make you a proposition,"

"Everybody—Altogether!"

That is the keynote of the Clean Up and Paint Up campaign.

he said. "If you will permit me I will give you, without cost, all the paint necessary to paint your house if you will do the work."

The owner accepted the proposition and later the paint was delivered. The philanthropist exacted the promise that the owner would not tell any of his neighbors that the paint was a gift.

In the course of time the house was painted and the effect was marvelous to behold. Like a new house it stood among its dingy neighbors as conspicuous as a fairy in a minstrel show. The owners of the other houses noticed the contrast. They saw how miserably poor the newly painted house made theirs look. One after the other they went to the stores and ordered paint. During that season every one of the fifteen houses was painted and the premises cleaned and the street became one of the best looking in town.

That is what was accomplished when one man started to improve his home. If whole neighborhoods, street by street, should start to improve in our town what a tremendous difference it would make in the appearance of this community. Let's get together and try it.

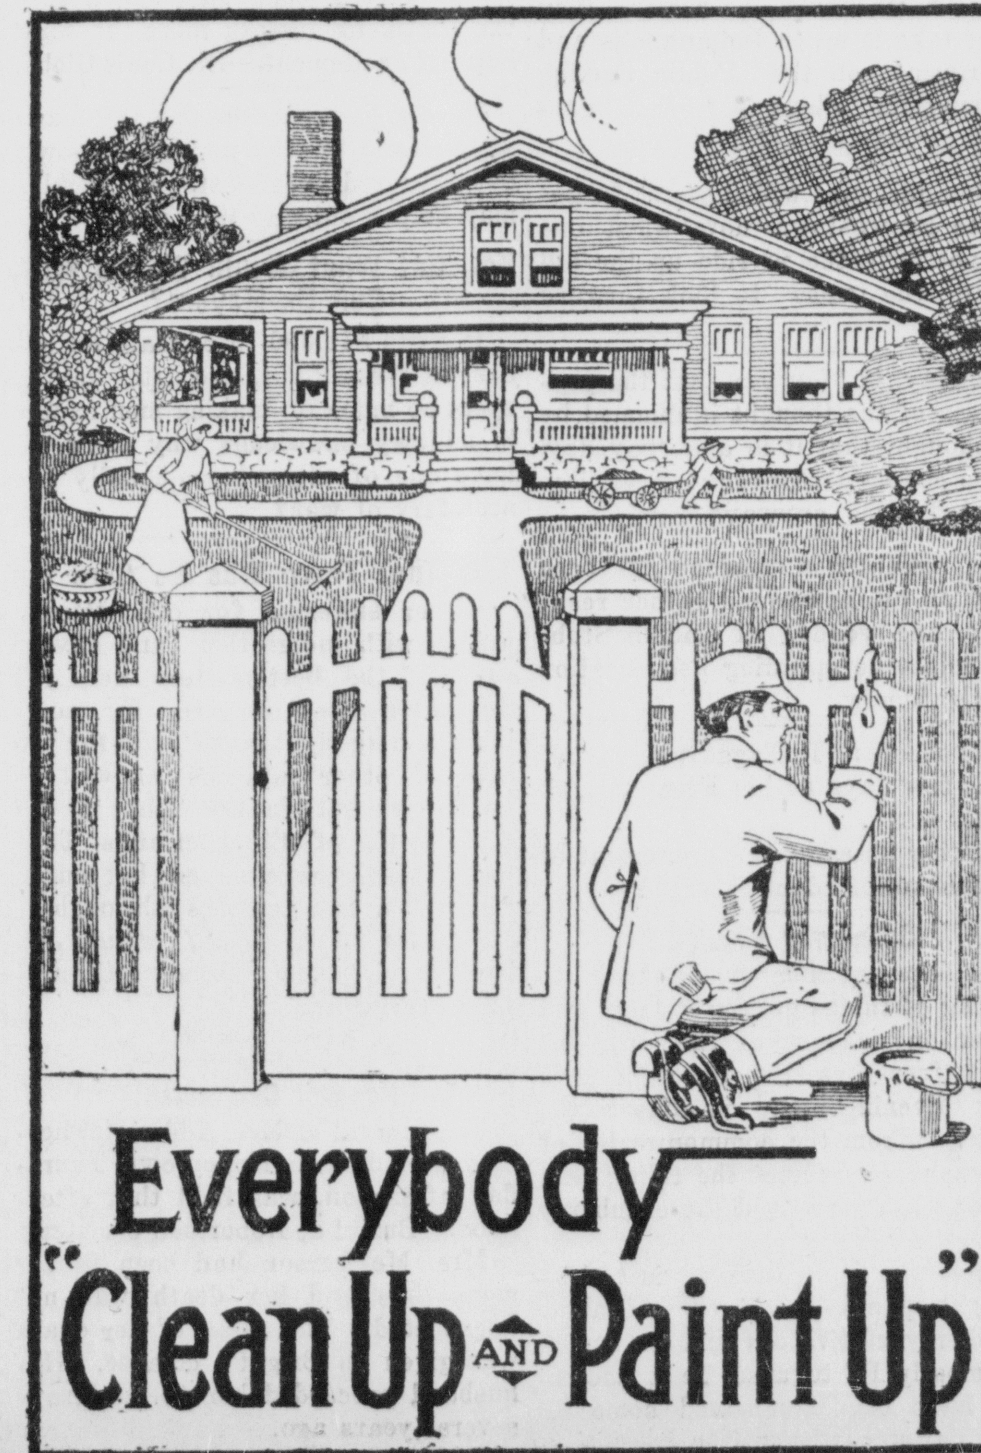

Vacant Lot Gardens.

One of our Clean Up and Paint Up campaign committees should get permission from owners to plant gardens on vacant lots. Then organize children's garden clubs, which are so successful in many cities, towns and villages throughout the country. Offer prizes for the best vegetables and summer flowers.

Get Rid of Weeds.

In connection with the Clean Up and Paint Up campaign in this community it has been wisely suggested that we take steps to remedy the unsightliness of weed-grown vacant lots all over town. There is no reason why it cannot be done.

WHAT PAINT WILL DO.

Adds to the Appearance and Value of Houses.

Ask any real estate man what percentage of value is added to a house by a fresh coat of paint and you will be surprised at the size of the figure he will give you. Too many householders have the habit of putting off painting until a house fairly screams for it, and they perhaps figure that they are economizing. Not so.

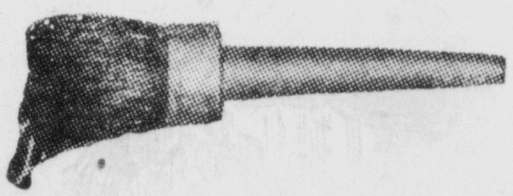

Good paint applied at regular intervals, not too far apart, is the true economy in that it not only actually raises the value of the house by improved appearance, but through preservative ingredients prevents and arrests decay.

The man who lets his house become an eyesore in an otherwise well kept locality should be taxed for the heavy damage he is doing to that community, says the Real Estate Journal.

Do Something For Your Town. The "Clean Up and Paint Up" movement will do much to make our town healthy and beautiful if each citizen does his full share in the home, school, shop, church and neighborhood. It will be a school of good citizenship. Let every one take a hand in the campaign.

STRASEN TRIO PLEASURES.

One of the most thoroughly artistic and enjoyable musical events of the season was the concert given last evening by the Strasen Trio, of Milwaukee, in the auditorium of the Lutheran Club building. The trio of sisters, all of whom are connected with the faculty of the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music, proved themselves thorough musicians and delightful entertainers. Their program was well chosen, both the solos and the trio numbers eliciting hearty applause.

Miss Minna Strasen, violinist, completely captivated her audience with her playing of the "Faust Fan-tasie de Concert," by Alard. Her performance was marked by a warmth and color of tone and perfection of technique that brought out all the beauty of this selection and stamps her as an artist from whom much is to be expected.

Miss Marie Strasen, cellist, gave a thoroughly satisfactory rendition of the well-liked "Berceuse," from Jocelyn, and also played "Cantilene," by Goltermann. Both selections were enthusiastically received.

Miss Clara Strasen, at the piano, showed marked ability, both in her accompaniments and in her solo numbers, "Gavotte and Musette," by d'Albert, and "Hark, Hark, the Lark," Schubert-Liszt. Her interpretation and technique were equally good and her work was artistic in every sense of the word.

The trio numbers were exceptionally well done, and were all received with marked appreciation and well deserved applause. The Strasen sisters combine with their musical talents very pleasing stage presences, and this fact added no little to the enjoyment of their program.

They are making a short tour of Indiana, during which they are to give concerts in Evansville, Indianapolis, Columbus and a few other cities. The concert here was under the auspices of the Lutheran Social-Aid Society.

HERE ON WEDDING TOUR.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Finnegan, of St. Louis, spent the day in the city visiting with relatives and friends. The young couple are returning from a short wedding trip to Cincinnati and other points east, their marriage having taken place in St. Louis Wednesday. The bride was Miss Florence Schutzius, a charming and popular young lady of that city. Mr. Finnegan is a former Seymour boy, having graduated from the Seymour high school with the class of 1903. He has been located in St. Louis for several years, where he has made a success in railroad circles. He is connected with the Inspection Bureau of the Central Freight Association. Mr. and Mrs. Finnegan will make their home in St. Louis.

RECEPTION FOR MUSICIANS.

The Misses Clara, Minna, and Marie Strasen, of Milwaukee, were the honor guests last evening at a delightful reception given by the Misses Estella and Eleanor Ahlbrand at their home on South Chestnut street, following the concert given by the trio at the Lutheran Club. A large number of young people, members of the Lutheran Social Aid Society and their friends, accepted the invitation to meet the talented young musicians and the occasion proved a very enjoyable one. During the evening the Misses Strasen favored the company with several beautiful selections. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

VON DELINGEN-HAGEMANN.

Miss Lydia Von Dielingen and Mr. Henry Hagemann were united in marriage Thursday evening at the parsonage of the Rev. F. W. Pohlman, pastor of the Sauer's Church. Following the ceremony the young couple left for St. Louis and other points on a wedding trip and on their return will be at home for the present with the bride's parents. Mrs. Hagemann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Von Dielingen, and is popular among a large circle of friends in Washington township. Mr. Hagemann is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hagemann, and is a highly estimable young man.

ATTEND ANNIVERSARY.

Ed Doane and daughter, Miss Esther, went to Cincinnati today to attend the golden wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. Joseph H. Sedgwick. The Rev. Mr. Sedgwick was formerly pastor of the First Baptist church in this city and has many friends in Seymour and Jackson county.

MONDAY MUSICAL.

The Monday Musicales will meet Monday evening at the home of Mrs. F. J. Voss, East Fourth street, for a business session. Officers are to be elected. The members are urged to attend this meeting.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

Rev. H. R. Booch to Address L. O. of M. Sunday Night.

The Loyal Order of Moose, No. 1123, will attend a Memorial service at the St. Paul Congregational church Sunday night. The lodge will attend in a body. "A Vital Question," will be the theme of the sermon to be given by the pastor, the Rev. H. R. Booch. A special musical program has been arranged for the occasion. Miss Anna Massman, organist, will render several selections and special numbers will be given by the St. Paul choir.

Albert Klinge, who lives near Dudleytown, has been ill with dropsy for several weeks and his condition shows little improvement.

Periscopic Paragraphs.

Speaking of April showers, we notice the social column is having its full share this spring.

Truth, crushed to earth, shall rise again, and take another try at it, and spring seems to feel the same way about it.

If the council buys a lung motor, it might try it out on the new electric light company.

Or, what would be better, they might take it up to Indianapolis and experiment on the Public Service Commission, which it seems, could stand considerable stimulation.

What pleasure will there be in going to Brownstown now, when one will not have the joyride up the hill behind the mules to look forward to?

Monday, is May day, but the joyousness of the thought is dimmed by the thought that it is also 'pay day' at the county treasurer's office. Who invented taxes, anyway?

We notice that someone has been throwing bricks around rather recklessly, and wonder if Golduh Stubbins might be spending her vacation in this vicinity.

News note: T. Taggart is spending a few days at his French Lick hotel.

Resting up after the excitement of the convention, doubtless.

Cranberry Famine.

We are getting accustomed to hearing of things getting scarcer and higher on account of the war, but we confess that this, from the New York Evening Post, is almost too much: "From the commonwealth of Massachusetts comes the tidings that the war has torpedoed the cranberry crop."

The cranberry famine is to be brought upon us by shortage of labor. Cranberry cultivators and gatherers are mostly Portuguese, be it known, and have been summoned home by their nation's plunge into hostilities. Now who will splash through the bogs to grow and glean the bright red berries that are as indispensable to Thanksgiving as are holly berries to Christmastide? We are told flatly that there are none to do it.

This is truly a grievous injury. Next thing we shall be deprived of our huckleberry crop, and what hardship will ensue then heaven know! For, to cite one instance, down in Sampson County, N. C., it is a well known fact that they turn the children loose with tags around their necks in the "big blue" swamps when summer comes and round them up again for identification in the fall.

They Want Some Fun.

Those Washington Democrats who are insisting that Mr. Bryan be a delegate to the St. Louis convention do not care to come half way across the continent unless there is some hope of excitement.—St. Louis Globe.

Garden hints for the day: Spinach seed should not be planted in rows, but scattered broadcast. Dill pickles may be put out any time now.

Yes, But What Would We Do With Our Ex-Mayors?

It costs $12,000 to educate an officer at West Point, and after having spent so much on making men expert in military knowledge why can't we have one of them occasionally for secretary of war?

Told That There Was No Cure for "After suffering for over twenty years with indigestion and having some of the best doctors here tell me there was no cure for me, I think it only right to tell you for the sake of other sufferers as well as your own satisfaction that a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets not only relieved me but cured me within two months although I am a man of 65 years," writes Jul. Grobier, Houston, Texas. Obtainable everywhere.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

depending upon the time when the bonds were issued. The Barrett law bond accounts are kept separate from the other city accounts. A separate ledger was opened when the first bonds were issued and as soon as the installments are paid the money is turned over to the holders of the bond. A property owner has the right to pay the remaining indebtedness at the time either of the semi-annual installments become due.

In a short time the county treasurer will turn over to the city the amount of taxes which is due the municipal corporation. All taxes are paid to the county treasurer in this county and the amounts due the various corporations are distributed after the time for payment. Because of the activity of the tax collectors recently the city's receipts this spring will likely be larger than usual as quite a few delinquent amounts have been paid together with the additional fees as penalties. Under the agreement with the tax collectors the city and county lost nothing due as taxes and the collectors were compensated by the collection of such fees as are allowed by law. The activity of the collectors, it is said, caused a number of taxpayers who heretofore have been negligent about making prompt settlement to call at the treasurer's office and avoid the delinquent fees.

M. E. CONFERENCE
CONVENES MONDAY

Members of Local Church Manifest Great Interest in Quadrennial Session at Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

FACTS OF CHURCH HISTORY

Dr. F. A. Steele, District Superintendent, Will Attend Meeting as First Alternate Delegate.

Local Methodists are manifesting unusual interest in the twenty-seventh quadrennial session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church which will be held in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., beginning Monday and continuing until May 31. Dr. F. A. Steele, of this city, is the first alternate delegate to the general conference from the Indiana conference. It is expected that Dr. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the Meridian Street M. E. church, Indianapolis, will be elected as a bishop. Dr. Stansfield is a delegate and in case of his election Dr. Steele will take his place as a delegate.

The general conference is a delegate body of over eight hundred ministers and laymen in equal numbers and meets every four years to review the work of the church and to revise and add to its legislation. The general conference is made up of delegates from the one hundred and thirty-three annual conferences, the annual conference being the working unit of Methodism. These delegates are elected on a basis of one ministerial delegate for every forty-five, or fraction not less than two-thirds of forty-five, ministerial members in any given annual conference, the number of lay delegates always being the same for each conference as its ministerial delegates.

Laymen were first admitted to the general conference in 1872 and in 1900 women were acknowledged as lay members. These lay delegates are elected at a meeting of one representative from each local church in each annual conference territory. For the past twelve months, as the annual conferences have met, delegates have been elected.

A brief history of the church was recently completed and is as follows:

The first general conference of American Methodism was held in Baltimore, Maryland, in 1792, at which all preachers in full membership of an annual conference were eligible. The first delegated general conference was held in New York City, May 22, 1812. At this conference the first Episcopal address, an utterance which has become of increasing importance, was delivered. This Episcopal address is now accepted as the official declaration of the church on important theological, administrative and social problems. At the general conference held in New York City in 1844, the agitation over slave-holding became so acute as to result in plans for separation between that section of the church in the north and the section in the south.

Methodism began in America with the arrival of Phillip Embury and Barbara Heck, Irish immigrants, who were enthusiastic in the propaganda of their faith. John Wesley, who was the founder of Methodism in England, remained at the head of American Methodism until the Revolutionary war severed relationships between England and the United States. All of the preachers with the exception of Francis Asbury returned across the sea, whereupon, September 1, 1784, John Wesley ordained Dr. Thomas Coke to be superintendent or bishop of the Methodist societies of the United States of America. There are now twenty bishops and seven mission bishops serving the Methodist Episcopal church throughout the world. The former are elected by general conference and located for periods of four years each in cities which are designated Episcopal residences. The latter are elected by general conference for continuous service in specific fields.

The Methodist Episcopal church was organized at Baltimore, Maryland, at the so-called Christmas conference, December 24, 1784, to January 2, 1785. At that time there were 104 preachers and 18,000 communicants. There are now over 15,000 preachers and 4,033,123 members. In the early days of the Methodist church the salary of a preacher was $64. If married, he received the similar amount for his wife, with $16 for each child under six and $22 for each child between six and eleven.

Among the important matters that will come before the general conference at Saratoga Springs are the questions concerning organic union with the Methodist Episcopal church, south, which has been under discussion with both of these important branches of Methodism for some time; the question whether the church shall elect bishops for races and languages; the election of bishops to take the place of those who have died during the last four years and those who will retire from active service automatically by reason of this session being nearest to their seventy-third birthday; the election of editors for the church press, which includes the Methodist Review, the numerous weekly Christian Advocates, the Epworth Herald, and the Sunday School publications of the church; the election of corresponding secretaries for such church boards as the Board of Foreign Missions, the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, the Freedmen's Aid Society, the Board of Education, the Board of Sunday Schools, etc.; the election of publishing agents (administrative heads) of the Methodist Book Concern, etc.

PEACE IN MEXICO WILL HELP MOTOR BUSINESS

M. F. Bottorff Receives Letter From Son, Seneca O. Bottorff, About Conditions Along Border.

M. F. Bottorff, of this city, has received a letter from his son, Seneca O. Bottorff, a resident of Albuquerque, N. Mex., and El Paso, Tex., for the last ten years, which tells some interesting conditions in Mexico. The letter in part says:

I have invested $25,000 in the automobile business and will move in my new quarters containing 4,000 sq. ft. of floor space on Myrtle St., El Paso, Texas, about May first.

I have contracts for handling new cars in Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and all the republic of old Mexico. You understand I will appoint sub-agents in every town of any size in this territory and will receive a nice commission on all sales made. When business is resumed in Mexico it is expected that an important demand for automobiles and motor trucks and delivery cars of American manufacture will be manifested. The trade in tires and accessories has already reached considerable volume and it is said to be increasing gradually. It is practically four years since Mexico was eliminated as a market for motor vehicles. At that time every automobile manufacturer in the U. S. was represented in the various cities of the republic.

Garages and dealers were located in all the chief cities and large stocks of tires and accessories were carried. In these days the trend of the demand was toward the higher priced French cars, and in the city of Mexico there were to be seen more autos of French than American manufacture consequently a large proportion of the tires and accessories come from Europe. While there has been some replenishing of auto stock during the last few years, and particularly during the last few months Mexico is still a virgin field for this class of trade. Most of the cars that have been shipped recently through Peidras Negras and other border towns were for military uses and to replace the old worn-out vehicles that saw hard service during the revolutionary period. The demand is now beginning to extend to private users. In this connection it may be well to mention, that the prevailing idea in U. S. seems to be that the people of Mexico have exhausted or lost all of their wealth. This is an erroneous idea. While it is true that many have had their fortunes badly depleted there is still much actual cash in the country, and it is hoped that it will be placed in circulation as soon as political conditions will permit. Not long ago a sales company on the border filled an order for tires and tubes for delivery to a commission broker in Mexico City that aggregated $25,000 gold. It is stated by dealers along the frontier that there is a good demand for second hand automobiles for shipment to Mexico. The fact that the country is now short of good horses and that many people have no means of getting about in carriages as formerly, is one of the elements that enter into the growing demand for motor cars. Some of the largest mining and industrial concerns operating in Mexico have placed orders recently for a number of trucks and several of these shipments have already gone forward. It is believed that the sale of motor trucks will reach large proportions, as they are known to be especially adapted to the heavy hauling required in the mining camps and manufacturing centers of the republic.

John H. Williams, of Louisville was in the city to-day for a visit with friends before going to St. Louis, where he will spend the first week of May.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

PROHIBITION GOVERNORS.

Each of the seven states which outlawed the liquor traffic January 1 is fortunate in having a governor who is heartily in favor of prohibition and will uphold the law.

Governor Carlson of Colorado says he will enforce it even to the extent of calling upon the state militia. Governor Lester of Washington urges an appropriation of $50,000 to be used in enforcement. Governor Withycombe of Oregon expresses confidence that an overwhelming majority of the citizens of the state mean to see that the provisions of the law are lived up to and that they may count upon his help to the utmost. Governor Alexander's vigorous championship of the statutory prohibition law of Idaho is well known, and his personal influence was used to secure the referendum on the constitutional amendment to be taken next November.

When Governor Hay of Arkansas signed the prohibition bill, he said: "I believe the most manly act of my life, an act that will mean much to me, to my conscience, to my wife, to my two little boys, and to the people of the state to which I owe so much, was the act I performed when I placed my signature to the bill which gave Arkansas state-wide prohibition."

The attitude of Governor Clarke of Iowa is indicated by his remarks when he signed the measure repealing the mulct law and putting into effect state-wide prohibition: "The banishment of the saloon ought to mean the emancipation of many a laboring man, the joy of the wife in his home, better conditions and a better outlook on life for his child."

South Carolina's governor in his New Year's greeting declared that, "With the help of God and the support of the people the prohibition law shall be rigidly enforced so long as I am governor."

ALCOHOL AFFECTS ARTERIES.

The statement that "a man is as old as his arteries" is as true as it is familiar. The normal healthy artery is endowed with a wonderful amount of elasticity, so that it is easily capable of accommodating varying quantities of blood according to the requirements of the occasion. When the heart pumps a new supply of blood into the arteries, they immediately expand to receive the additional blood, and then quickly contract again in order to pass it on through the circulatory system. Here again we witness the hardening effects of alcohol, which causes an ever increasing loss of elasticity. The arteries become hard and brittle, and in the case of strain are liable to break, and thus cause a hemorrhage, small or large. This condition of the arteries is known as arteriosclerosis; and if an artery bursts in the brain, the result is usually a stroke of apoplexy, causing more or less paralysis of one side of the body. The escaping blood forms a clot, which so presses upon the nerve cells as to put them out of action, at least, for a time, if not permanently. It is not necessary to say apoplexy is one of the serious diseases, and it is uncommon for a person to survive a third stroke.—Dr. A. B. Olsen.

NO BACKWARD STEPS.

Judge Tully Scott of Colorado's supreme court, speaking to the toast "Democracy's Opportunity" at a Democratic banquet, made this statement: "In my opinion constitutional prohibition will never be repealed in Colorado. I believe it to be as firmly established as the provision for equal suffrage, and I believe we all agree that any effort to repeal the grant of equal suffrage in this state would prove as futile as an attempt to repeal the natural law of gravitation."

PROSPERITY IN KOKOMO.

Kokomo, a dry city of Indiana, is having the most prosperous times in its history. No empty buildings, and such a demand for homes that the business men have arranged to build at least two hundred at once. Four of the biggest firms agree to erect 25 houses each.

FARMERS APPROVE.

The Nebraska farmers' congress went on record in favor of prohibition at a meeting in Omaha, December 8. After a heated debate, a resolution for prohibition was drawn to replace one submitted by the resolutions committee opposing prohibition. The amended resolution was adopted by a vote of 52 to 7.

EFFICIENT PROHIBITION.

It was a Milwaukee mayor who said: "I am opposed to prohibition because it prohibits."

FATHER'S GONE TO WORK AGAIN.

Everybody works but father.
He sits around all day.
His feet in front of the fire,
Smoking his pipe of clay;
Mother takes in washing,
So does sister Ann.
Everybody works at our house,
But my old man.
The sequel to this once popular little song:
Father's gone to work again,
Since the town went dry.
He comes home of evenings
"Feelin' mighty spry."
Mother's down town shopping,
So is sister Ann.
Now that he is sober,
They're proud of the "old man."

WORLD RELIGIONS AND CHILDHOOD.

IN NO religious system save that of Christianity does the child receive any recognition. Mohammed seems to know nothing about a child; heathenism and mythology seem to know nothing about childhood. Their gods were not born children, nor are they ever clothed with any sympathy for a child; they never enter into the plays of children, nor share their sports. These gods are gods of terror, gods of passion, gods of lust, gods of might, but never gods of helpfulness, or of interest in childhood, and hence make no provision for children. It is, however, one of the great elemental facts of Christianity that its leader and founder was born in a manger under the law of total helplessness, and Christianity is the only religion wherein a child is the basis and foundation of its faith. Christianity is the age that has recognized the child and teaches that "a child shall lead them;" that exhorts its followers to "feed my lambs," and teaches that we must "become as little children," because "of such is the kingdom of heaven."

In the open heart of the child the Sunday school is planting the good seed of God's Word. Probably a majority of homes which give religious instruction revolve it about the Sunday school lessons.

But the task of training childhood extends through adolescence and maturity as well. For this reason the modern Sunday school recognizes that it is no longer a school for children. Starting with the cradle roll it extends on to the grave without regard for age or sex, old as well as young, parents and children; the Sunday school asks no questions, it includes all. Nevertheless the chief emphasis in the Sunday school has been and must continue to be the teaching and training of children. Over the main entrance to the Children's building at the Chicago world's fair were the words, "The hope of the world is the children." This is true, but it is not more true than to say, "The hope of the world is the children trained in the truths of Christianity." Richard Baxter contended that in the so-called Christian lands there should be no adult converts, all should become Christians when they are young.

The Idyl of Twin Fires

By WALTER
PRICHARD
EATON

CHAPTER XI.

A Pagan Thrush.

All that next June day I worked in my garden, in a dream, my hands performing their tasks mechanically. I ran the wheel hoe between the rows of newly planted raspberries and blackberries, to mulch the soil, without consciousness of the future fruit which was supposed to delight me.

My mind was not on the task. Over and over I was asking the question, "Do I love her? What permanence is there in a spring passion, amid gardens and thrush songs, for a girl who caresses the sympathies by her naive delight in the novelty of country life? How much of my feeling for her is passion, and how much is sympathy, even pity?"

Over and over I turned these questions, while my hands worked mechanically. And over and over, too, I will be honest and admit, the selfish incrustations of bachelor habits imposed their opposition to the thought of union. I had bought the farm to be my own lord and master; here I was at work, to create masterpieces of literature, to plan gardens, to play golf, to smoke all over the house, to toll all night and sleep all day if I so desired, to wear soft shirts and never dress for dinner, to maintain my own habits, my own individuality, undisturbed. What had been so pleasant, so tinglingly pleasant, for a day, a week—the presence of the girl in the garden, in the house, the rustle of her skirt, the sound of her fingers on the keys—would it be always pleasant? What if one wished to escape from it, and there were no escape? Passions pass; life, work, ambitions, the need of solitude for creation, the individual soul, go on.

"All of which means," I thought, laying down my brush scythe and gazing into the brook, "that I am not sure of myself. And if I am not sure of myself, do I really love her? And if I am not sure of that, I must wait."

That resolution, the first definite thing my mind had laid hold on, came to me as the sun was sinking toward the west. I went to the house, changed my clothes, and hastened up the road to meet her, curiously eager for a man in doubt.

She was coming out of the door as I crossed the bit of lawn, dressed not in the working clothes which she had worn on our gardening days, but all in white, with a lavender ribbon at her throat. She smiled at me brightly and ran down the steps.

"Go to New York—but see Twin Fires first," she laughed. "I'm all ready for the tour."

I had not quite expected so much lightness of heart from her, and I was a little piqued, perhaps, as I answered, "You don't seem very sorry that you are seeing it for the last time."

She smiled into my face. "All pleasant things have to end," she said, "so why be glum about it?"

"Do they have to end?" said I.

"In my experience, always," she nodded.

I was silent. My resolution, which I confess had wavered a little when she came through the doorway, was fixed again. Just the light banter in her tone had done it. We walked down the road, and went first around the house to take a look at the lawn and rose trellis. The young grass was already a frail green from the house to the roses, the flowers around the white sundial pedestal, while not yet in bloom, showed a mass of low foliage, the nasturtiums were already trying to cling, with the aid of strings, to the bird bath (which I had forgotten to fill), and the rose trellis, colored green by the painters before they departed, was even now hidden slightly at the base by the vines of the new roses.

"There," said I, pointing to it, "is the child of your brain, your aqueduct of roses, which you refuse to see in blossom."

"The child of my hands, too; don't forget that!" she laughed.

"Of our hands," I corrected.

"The ghost of Rome in roses," she said, half to herself. "It will be very lovely another year, when the vines have covered it."

"And it will be then, I trust," said I, "rather less like 'the rose of beauty on the brow of chaos.' The lawn will look like a lawn by then, and possibly I shall have achieved a sundial plate."

"Possibly you will," said she, with a suspicious twinkle. "And possibly you'll have remembered to fill your bird bath."

She turned abruptly into the house and emerged with a pitcher of water, tiptoeing over the frail, new grass to the bath, which she filled to the brim, pouring the remainder upon the vines at the base.

"My last activity shall be for the birds," she smiled, as she came back with the pitcher. As if in gratitude, a bird came winging out of the orchard behind her, and dipped his breast and bill in the water.

"The darling!" I heard her exclaim, under her breath.

We took the pitcher inside, and I saw her glance at the flowers in the vases. "I ought to get you some fresh ones," she said.

"No," I answered. "Those shall stay a long while, in memory of the good fairy. Now I will show you my house. You have never seen my house above the first story."

"It isn't proper," she laughed. "I shouldn't be even here, in the south room."

"But you have been here many times."

Again she laughed. "Stupid! But Mrs. Pillig wasn't here then?"

"Oh!" said I, a light dawning on my masculine stupidity. "I begin to realize the paradoxes of propriety. And now I see at last why I shouldn't have asked you to pick the paint for the dining room—when I did."

Her eyes narrowed, and she looked into my face with sudden gravity. "I wonder if you do understand?" she answered. Slowly a half-wistful smile crept into the corners of her mouth, and she shook her head. "No, you don't; you don't at all."

Then her old laugh came bubbling up. "I suspect Mrs. Pillig is more of an authority on pies than propriety," she said in a cautious voice, "and, besides, I'm going away tomorrow, and besides, I don't care anyway. Lead on."

We went up the uncarpeted front stairs, into the square upper hall which was lighted by an east window over the front door. I showed her first the spare room on the northeast corner, which connected with the bath, and then the second front chamber opposite, which was not yet furnished even with a bed. Then we entered my chamber, where the western sun was streaming in. She stood in the door a second, looking about, and then advanced and surveyed the bed.

"The bedclothes aren't tucked in right," she said.

"I know it," I answered sadly. "I have to fix them myself every night. Mrs. Pillig is better on pies."

The girl leaned over and remade my monastic white cot, giving the pillow a final pat to smooth it. Then she inspected the shingles and old photographs on the walls, turning from an undergraduate picture of me, in a group, to scan my face, and shaking her head.

"What's the matter?" I asked. "Don't tell me I'm getting bald."

"No, not bald," she answered, "but your eyes don't see visions as they did then."

I looked at her, startled a little. "What makes you say that?" I asked.

"Forgive me," she replied quickly. "I meant nothing."

"You meant what you said," I answered, moving close to her, "and it is true. It is true of all men, and all women, in a way—all save the chosen few who are the poets and seers. 'Shades of the prison house begin to close'—you know that shadow, too, I guess. I have no picture of you when you were younger. No—you are still the poet; you see aqueducts of roses. So you think I'm prosy now!"

"I didn't say that," she answered, very low.

"One vision I've seen," I went on.

"The Bed Clothes Aren't Tucked in Right."

"one vision, lately. It was—it was—" I broke abruptly off, remembering suddenly my resolve.

"Come," said I, "and I'll show you Mrs. Pillig's quarters."

She followed in silence, and peeped with me into the chambers of the ell, smiling a little as she saw Peter's clothes scattered on the floor and bed. Then, still in silence, and with the golden light of afternoon streaming across the slopes of my farm, we entered the pines by the woodshed, and followed the new path along by the potato field and the pasture wall, pausing here and there to gather the first wild rose buds, and turning down through the cloister at the south.

As we slipped into the corner of the tamarack swamp my heart was beating high, my pulses racing with the recollection of all the tense moments in that grove ahead, since first I met her there. I know not with what feelings she entered. It was plain now even to me that she was masking them in a mood of lightness. She danced ahead over the new plank walk, and laughed back at me over her shoulder as she disappeared into the pines. A second later I found her sitting on the stone I had placed by the pool.

HARD ON AUTO THIEVES

Must Serve Six Years In Prison, Illinois Pardon Board Rules.

Chicago, April 29.—Automobile thieves in Illinois have been given a stunning blow by the state board of pardons, which ruled that hereafter such thieves, sent to prison under the indeterminate sentence act, shall serve the maximum term provided by law, which is six years and three months. The doors of the board were closed and locked against this type of thief.

Chicago has been a profitable field for the auto thief. During the last year, 2,185 cars were stolen in this city. During the same year only 214 cars were stolen in New York, where the insurance men organized a few years ago to combat these thieves and sent a number of them to Sing Sing.

HEALTH PREPAREDNESS PRICE OF SUCCESS

Natural Living and Eternal Vigilance Rewarded.

To be physically ready for emergencies is one of the highest duties anyone owes to self or family.

Every doctor knows that if there is any royal road to health it is open bowels—and that wrong eating and constipation are the causes of practically all diseases.

Doctors have long recognized castor oil as the best treatment for constipation on account of its being a nourishing, healing, remedy which doesn't leave any bad after effects.

The only trouble with castor oil has been the fact that physicians have nearly always had a great deal of difficulty in getting patients to take it.

But now thanks to the experiments of a Cleveland doctor, a jellied preparation known as CASTOR-JELL, which is 94 per cent pure castor oil with a delicious orange flavor added has been placed on sale at H. H. Carter Drug Co., The Castor Products Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Joe Goss, of Brownstown, was in the city today where she spent a few hours with her son, J. A. Green, who is confined in the local hospital.

The children of Edward Lynn, South Lynn street, who have been very ill with severe cases of typhoid fever, are reported improved today.

It is announced that the ladies of the Christian church, of Reddington, cleared over $20.00 from the Easter supper held last Saturday night.

Mrs. Anna Wehmiller, living near Reddington, who has been seriously ill for the past few weeks, is reported in a critical condition today.

The Methodist Church, of Aeme, will hold a basket meeting at the church tomorrow. These services have always been well attended and a large crowd is expected. There will be a morning and afternoon service.

John Disney, who is employed as flagman by the Pennsylvania Railroad, was taken suddenly ill Friday while on duty. He was removed to his home on East Laurel street, and reports this morning indicated that he was slightly improved.

The young ladies class of the Baptist church, of Hayden, will hold an ice cream social at the church tonight at 8 o'clock. This is the first social of this nature of the season and the indications are that there will be a large attendance.

The dedication of the Reddington Christian church will take place a week from tomorrow. The church has been recently remodeled and is at the present time one of the finest in this vicinity. The interior has been redecorated and quite a large addition has been built.

The revival services which were being held at the Aeme Christian church, came to a close this week. The services were in progress for ten days and were very successful. The meetings were closed only because of the inclement weather which made it so difficult for the members to attend.

Westbound train No. 11 was twenty minutes late today, owing to the derailment of several freight cars near Clarksburg.

Many local people who have seen the Kingston Orchard in bloom pronounce it one of the most beautiful scenes they have witnessed for a long time. The orchard is now in full bloom and the seventeen-acre block of Bens is especially beautiful. The public is invited to see the trees but a request is made that visitors do not touch the blooms or molest the trees.

E. P. Elsner, attorney for the petitioners asking for the improvement of several roads in this township with concrete, said today that he expected the case pending before the Indiana supreme court would be decided within the next two or three weeks. Senator Elsner recently petitioned the court to advance the case and the petition was granted, although it was not stated when the opinion would be handed down. The petitioners for the new highways are anxious for an early decision so that if it is favorable to them work can be started at once.

NEW PLAYERS MAY BE SEEN IN RED SOX UNIFORMS

Changes Rumored in Line-up of Locals for Game Tomorrow with Louisville Team.

Some new faces may be seen in Red Sox uniforms tomorrow when the locals line-up against the Council Junior team of Louisville, at Schroer Park. No definite announcement would be made by the management today, but it is understood that a new first baseman and probably a new third baseman may be on the job tomorrow. Efforts are being made to bolster the weak places, and as soon as a winning combination is secured, it will be continued throughout the season.

Little is known of the visiting team's strength, but according to their own statement they will be able to make things interesting for the locals. 2:30 is the hour set for the opening of the argument.
